Proposed Interview of Mrs. Liselotte Anna CIOCI

Ref: 100A 25043, 17 September 1957

1. We in Bonn have no objections to an interview with subject, but the mechanics of it may be a little troublesome. The competent security officer in her case is Major Patrick J. SHANLEY of MAAG. The Embassy Security Office has a file on the woman, but does not have jurisdiction over her employment by the Army. Therefore one would presume that any interview based ostensibly on the effect of her foreign connections on her employment by the Army would be done by SHANLEY or by a CIC agent sent here at SHANLEY's request. Agreement of the Army would have to be obtained before one of our people could conduct an interview, and to be plausible the interview would have to be under MAAG Security cover, which means CIC cover, in which case CIC might insist on having one of their men present. The alternative would be to provide a brief to SHANLEY or to CIC and ask them to do the questioning.

2. We shall not approach SHANLEY until instructed to do so, since you must presumably obtain WFSKING's concurrence before revealing to another element operational interest, CIOCI's relatives.

3. We do not have the true identity of [redacted].

4. Following are [redacted] comments on CIOCI:

Subject shared temporary quarters with [redacted] and two MAAG secretaries from October thru the middle of December 1956.

Subject proved unwilling to cooperate during temporary inconvenience of sharing quarters and accused MAAG Housing Office of discriminating against her because of nationality and non-MAAG status. She spent little time at the apartment and refused to partake in any sociabilities with the three roommates; i.e., bought her own food, ate alone, spent evenings in her bedroom, etc. It was her practice to either swim or walk during the early evening hours and retire by 11 p.m. Occasionally she would be joined by another female (usually a MAAG girl). To [redacted] knowledge, subject never received male callers. On weekends, CIOCI would leave for what were assumed to be solitary motor trips to different neighboring regions of Bonn, always returning late Sunday night. On one occasion, she mentioned visiting parents in Hamburg. She read a great many books noticed all being in German.

She claimed a great dislike for alcohol, a dislike almost verging on predistness. Her wardrobe was adequate but not stylish. She was clean and orderly in her personal grooming.

She never evidenced a shortage of money; obviously had enough to allow travel and maintenance of auto (Volkswagen). Rarely spoke of prior life.
Gave impression that family was of better class and in former days lived well. Never mentioned former husband, and was not impressed with her life in U.S.A. Considered by [] to be complete introvert and not capable of deep friendship.
